BONUS BILL 'SHOWDOWN' NEAR TODAY

Hearings on Efforts to Seek Cash Payment of Certificates Begin

BOTH SIDES READY

American Legion Chieftains Are Opposed

WASHINGTON, April 11— The campaign for cash payment of the soldiers' "bonus" at an estimated cost of $2,400,000,000 was officially opened today as the House ways and means committee began hearing on 20 bills.

With all the fervor of army days, World War veterans came forward with arguments to convince the committee that the certificates should be paid 13 years before maturity.

Rep. Patman (D) of Texas, led the forces for cash payment with Rep. Rankin (D) of Mississippi as his chief aide.

The battle of organized veterans was conducted by Darold Decoe of Sacramento Calf., commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, aided by officials of the Disabled American Veterans and other organizations.

LEGION IS OPPOSED

The American Legion is on the side of those fighting against cash payment as a result of action of the national convention at Detroit last year. National commander Henry L. Stevens and John Thomas Taylor, legislative representative, will state the Legion's position

Patman introduced something more than mere cash payment into the battle. He proposed to "reflate" the currency by providing that greenbacks be issued, based upon gold in the treasury and the government's obligation to pay the insurance certificates.

The plan was advanced by him as a necessary means of bringing prosperity to the country. It is assailed by administration forces as a revival of the old "greenback issue" and flat money, which would be disastrous to the financial position of the nation.

Patman maintains there is gold enough to provide a 40 per cent yellow metal backing for the certificates, while Majority Leader Rainey (D) of Illinois says that Patman plan would lower the gold reserve behind the notes to 6.7 per cent.

HEARING TO BE FAIR

Acting Chairman Crisp (D) of Georgia of the committee promised a full and fair hearing despite the fact that he opposes cash payment.

The committee was reported opposed to the Patman plan by a slight majority, and President Hoover has served notice he will veto the legislation. Congress, passed a bill over his veto last year raising the loan value of the certificates to 50 per cent.

Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler of Pennsylvania, former marine officer, is expected to furnish color to the hearing tomorrow, while Brig. Gen. Frank T. Himes of the veterans' bureau will appear against the bill.

The "veterans' bloc" of Congress is divided, with Rep. Johnson (R) of South Dakota and Rep. Fish (R) of New York, both World War veterans, leading forces against the measure.

SEVEN QUESTIONED IN DEATH OF GIRL

WHITING, Ind., April 11— Seven men were being questioned by police today in connection with the brutal murder of 12-year-old Susan Alberta Knight, who had been criminally attacked and then strangled to death with a length of electric light cord.

The girl's body was found in her room of a lodging house by a roomer who came to awaken her for Sunday school. She was the daughter of the late Rev. Oscar Knight, a Baptist clergyman.

Following an autopsy, Deputy Coroner David W. Bopp announced the girl had been attacked before being murdered

Six of the men detained for questioning were roomers in the house. The seventh, George Ross admitted that he spent the night in the room of friends who lived in the house He, as well as the other six men, denied all knowledge of the slaying

Besides Ross those questioned were Douglas Shore, Jack Goodman, John Mehok, Ira Tucker, Jack Gibson and John Michalik.

PLANT TO RESUME

MARTINS FERRY, O., April 11 —The Martins Ferry plant of the Wheeling Steel Corporation, idle for several weeks, was to resume work this afternoon by placing six mills in operation. Employment was promised several scores of men.

HITLER LOSES TO 'WAR LORD'

Fascist Leader Declares He Is Not Beaten; Von Hindenburg Regains Office.

BERLIN, April 11— Scenes of the intricaze German political drama were shifted again today as a result of yesterday's election returning Field Marshall Paul Von Hindenburg to the presidency with a lead of nearly six million votes over the total of Adolp Hitler, Fascist leader.

The reassuring election of the 84-year-old soldier-statesman was in effect a hearty endorsement of the internal and international policies of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, giving Bruening an entirely free hand for the first time in months in dealing with the coming disarmament and reparations meetings.

At the same time, however, the Hitler movement was far from beaten. The Nazil leader added 2,078,175 votes to his total in the election March 13, for which yesterday's balloting was a run-off, and Hitler's followers swung into the campaign for the April 24 Prussian diet elections hearlding yesterday's voting a distinct triumph.

6 KILLED IN OHIO TRAFFIC

Fog and Showers Cause Highways To Take Toll Over the Past Weekend.

By International News Service

Thick fog and occasional showers which made driving treacheous brought death to at least six persons in traffic accidents over the weekend, an International News Service checkup revealed today.

Suicides also were numerous, giving Ohio a high fatality toll for the period. Three persons took their lives at Cleveland and a girl teacher shot herself in Cincinnati. A drowning victim was reported at East Liverpool.

In the most tragic of the automobile crashes, Walter Karch, 47, of Cleveland, recognized as one of Ohio's ablest trial attorneys, died while enroute to the bedside of his sick father in Massillon.

Karch's coupe was demolished by a train near Barberton.

Karch was a specialist in damage and personal injury cases. His last case a breach of promise suit in federal court between Grace Priehs and Arthur H. Geiger, was completed only last Friday and Karch intended filing a new trial motion this week.

Two hit-skip victims were reported in Cleveland with the deaths of Bartolo Compigatti, 45, and Miss Helen Zalewski, 28.

Dale Wilson, 10, of Canton, was the youngest of the traffic victims He was killed and his father, Wilbur D. Wilson, was seriously hurt al Alliance, when their machine hit another machine.

"DOUBLE CROSSING" OF LINDBERGH CAUSES MORE THOROUGH SEARCH; FLYER SURE HE PAID RIGHT MEN

Broke Two-Century Tradition

Following an ancient custom, certain subjects of the King of England receive an annual stipend, called "Maundy Money," from the monarch The money is usually distributed by a representative appointed by the King. This year, however, King George and Queen Mary presented this money in person, for the first time in 200 years. The rulers are shown above as they arrived at Westminster Abbey for the ceremony.

Belief That Kidnapers are Located in Vicinity of Cape Cod Causes Stir

'RUNNERS' AID LAW

Distracted Father Admits Paying $50,000

WOODS HOLE, Mass., April 11. —The apparent double crossing of Col. Lindbergh and the well founded belief that the kidnapers of the child are located somewhere on Cape Cod has aroused the citizens of this part of the country and today an informal, unorganized but thorough search is being made of the region by department of justice agents, police, coast guard men and rum runners.

For the first time in history perhaps the rum runners are on the side of the law spending every effort to find the men who kidnaped the most famous baby in the world. This was revealed several days ago when a former resident of the Cape said that he had information that the abductors were hiding on Cape Cod and that he had been in touch with them.

TRENTON, N. J., April 11—The first direct suspect in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping mystery was questioned today by New Jersey police at Hopewell, N. J.

Great secrecy surrounded police action in taking this man into custody, and his identity was withheld "because the life of the baby depends on it."

Questioning of the suspect [illegible] the first development to be made public since Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh revealed Saturday night that he was led into paying $50,000 in ransom to men he believed to be the kidnapers of his son, Jr., who failed to restore the child as agreed.

IDENTIFY SELVES

In a new statement today, Lindbergh told of his conviction the men he dealt with were really the abductors of his 21-month old son because they identified themselves through use of a secret code contained in the original ransom note.

Existence of the note, reported to have been found in the nursery of the Lindbergh estate atop Sourland mountain after the child was stolen March 1, thereby was confirmed officially for the first time.

Apprehended in New York at the home of his mother, the suspect was held under police guard at Hopewell or nearby while he was repeatdly questioned by officials and his story of his movements were checked up.

In the bulletin announcing this angle of the case, Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of New Jersey state police, spoke

Babe's Mother Knew Nothing Of $50,000

HOPEWELL, N. J.—Mrs. Ann Morrow Lindbergh, mother of the famous baby for whom the whole world has been on the lookout since he was stolen from his crib 41 days ago, knew very little about the negotiations with the kidnapers in which her husband paid $50,000 fruitlessly.

All the while he was dealing with the men whom he believes has the baby in their possession, Colonel Lindbergh tried to spare his wife false hopes, it was learned today from a close friend of the family.

WAITED FOR RETURN

She knew of course that he was on the trail of some clue he believed worth investigating. She saw him depart and waited anxiously for his return but the exact details of his expedition in all probability were never told her

"I think it more than likely that she did not know the money was paid at the time it was paid," the friend said.

"The rest of the family appeared to be surprised when the news that the ransom had been paid was published. I think Colonel Lindbergh used his best not to raise false hopes in the family."

The bitter turn of events has been a terrible blow to Mrs. Lindbergh, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, her mother and the other members of the family who have gathered in the White House on Sourland mountain to keep a long vigil against heartbreak and defeat.

RIVER RISES TO SIX FEET

Rainfall In Past Three Days Totals 2.09 Inches; Floods Are Not Feared.

Continuous rainfall since Friday in Pickaway-co and central Ohio has caused the Scioto river to rise to the six-foot stage here. Thursday the river level was at zero, according to Dr. H R. Clarke, weather observer.

More than two inches rainfall, 2.09 to be exact, had been recorded here at 7 a. m. Monday.

COLUMBUS, O., April 11— Rains of the past few days have not produced enough waterfall to cause a serious rise in Ohio rivers and streams, government weather observers said Monday.

COLUMBUS, O., April 11—Ohio winter wheat suffered somewhat from adverse weather conditions in March, the U. S department of agriculture reported today

Although a survey of the state showed that leaves turned rather brown following the cold wave it is not believed that the lower part of the plants were seriously damaged, according to A R. Tuttle agricultural statistician

Despite the low prices paid for wheat last year the April 1 estimate indicated an approximate production of 29,000,000 bushels for 1932 although the five-year average is 27,219,000 bushels

Last year's bumper crop was 56,531,000 bushels

The condition of rye on April 1 according to the report, also was above the average

FAVOR CHAMPIONS FOR TOP POSITIONS

NEW YORK, April 11.—The Philadelphi Athletics and St. Louis Cardinals are favored to win the 1932 baseball championships in the opinion of 75 sports writers among the newspapers serviced by International News Service.

The Philadelphians received a total of 50 votes to win the American league pennant and the Yankees 24. With the exception of Washington which had one ballot cast in its favor, no other team in the league was considered for first place.

Washington clinched third place and the Cleveland Indians were outstanding choices for fourth.

The Detroit Tigers gained top position in the second group, the Boston White Sox were placed sixth, the Chicago White Sox seventh, and the St. Louis Browns eighth.

The Cardinals held a decided edge over the New York Giants for favor as National league flag winners. The St. Louis team ran up a total of 46 ballots against 23 for the New Yorkers. The Chicago Cubs took six first place votes. No other club was given a vote for top place.

The McGrawmen were ranked as outstanding choices for the second berth, with 40 of the 75 ballots cast in their favor.

After a close race, the Cubs were voted into third place with 27 votes over the Brooklyn Dodgers which had 24.

The Pittsburgh Pirates clinched fifth place. The Boston Braves were ranked as sixth.

The Phillies and Cincinnati Reds ran a neck and neck race for 7th place, the Phillies winning by a margin of 4 votes, thus giving to the Reds the unhappy honor of habitation in the cellar.

Rookies To Hold "Light" Tuesday

NEW YORK, April 11.—From 12 to 15 rookies, starting the season as regulars, will be seen in the line-ups of the big league baseball teams in tomorrow's inaugural games.

There will be about the same number of familiar faces in strange uniforms—players who were traded up or down the river during the off season. And the opening gong will mark the debut of three new managers—Max Carey of Brooklyn, Lew Fonseca of the Chicago White Sox, and George Gibson, who resumes his former post as pilot of the Pirates.

The two Chicago clubs and the Yankees are going in for rookies in a big way.

STARS EXPECTED

The Cubs will have Stanley Hack, up from Oakland, at third base—and this former bank teller who is now cashing base hits, may turn out to be the prize recruit of the season. They will have Billy Herman, Louisville product, at second base. Vince Barton, recalled from Los Angeles, is getting another trial in right field.

The White Sox are starting Harold Anderson, former St. Paul outfielder, in center field. Casey Selph, former farm hand of the St. Louis Cardinals, has been shoved into the third base hot spot.

Joe McCarthy of the Yankees has freshmen in two important infield posts. Frank Crosetti, San Francisco Italian who is acclaimed as a coming marvel, is at third base and Jack Saltzgaver from St. Paul at second.

Bill Lawrence, up from Seattle, may not start in center field for Detroit. Nolen Richardson, who commuted between the Motor City and Toronto last season, has won the third base assignment.

KOENECKE HITS

Len Koenecke, the $75,000 prize from Indianapolis, will play left field regularly for the Giants when right-handers are hurling for the opposition. In exhibition games, Koenecke has batted heavier than anybody on the club, except Bill Terry.

Al Cohen, Hartford rookie, will play left field for Brooklyn until Lefty O'Doul recovers from a wrist injury.

The Boston Braves are starting Bill Knothe, up from Seattle, at third base.

Mickey Heath, Hollywood product who broke his arm soon after his debut last year, is holding down first base for Cincinnati, and Joe Morrissey, former Holy Cross star who played with St. Paul last season, will see a good deal of service in the infield.

Prominent Kentucky Entrant

"Sweeping Light," the three-year-old entry from the Fair Stables, is considered prominent among the entrants for the 1932 Kentucky Derby, to be run at Louisville, Ky., May 7th. "Sweeping Light," by "Manna-Sweeping Glance," is quoted in the Winter books at 20-to-1.

GROCERS WIN COURT MEET

Leist Five of This City Runnerup In Tourney at Williamsport Gym.

Williams Grocers, backed by Dallas Williams of Commercial Point, won an independent basketball tournament held at Williamsport Friday and Saturday, by defeating the Leist Five of this city in the finals, 31-19.

The Grocers had nearly all Columbus players in their lineup including John Morgan, Towler, and Todd. Ferguson was another member of the Grocer squad. The local team was composed of Carl Purcell, Judy Gordon, Boyce Parks, H. White and Zeke Zeimer.

The locals placed two men on the all-tournament team, Carl Purcell who was chosen captain, and Judy Gordon, while Morgan, Ferguson and Towler of the Grocer team filled the rest of the positions.

The Leist squad gained their way to the final round by defeating Clarksburg and Williamsport.

Officials for the tournament were Bob Pickens and John Heiskell.

NORTH. HARRIERS MEET OTTERBEIN

ADA, O., April 11.—Ohio Northern's Polar Bear track team will engage in the first scheduled meet of the season, Saturday, April 23, when the trackmen from Otterbein will invade the Northern cinder path.

Coach Clyde Lamb is sending his proteges through stiff practice sessions daily in preparation for the opening meet, and despite severe losses through graduation and ineligibility he is looking forward to a successful season.

Losses to the team which are keenly felt are Ross Siverling, Salamanca, N. Y., winner of the 100 yd. dash at the Big Six meet last year; Tom Porosky, Akron, fleet-footed dash man; Charles Piotter, Akron, field events; Paul Westcott, Astabula, miler; and James Long, Ada, pole vault.

Coach Lamb is searching diligently for field events men, having few or no candidates for the shot-put, discus, and javelin.

The Polar Bears, however, have some promising material in the following men: Floyd McCoy, Jackson, high pump; Harold Hall, Clinton, N. J., 880-yard run; James Badalmenti, Cleveland, mile; Ted Arnold, Ada, two mile; Harry Roemisch, Cleveland, hurdles; Joe Uhl, Sharon, Pa., Paul Patterson, Ironton, Lewis Bishop, Elyria, and Gordon Chappell, Perrysburg, distance runners.

Clark Signs

PORTSMOUTH, O., April 11 — "Potsy" Clark, former Illinois quarterback, will coach the Portsmouth Spartans in the National Professional Football league again this year.

Clark signed a new contract with the Spartans yesterday. He led the Portsmouth team to second place last season. He formerly coached at Illinois, Butler and Kansas universities.

ENTRIES BEGIN IN INDIANAPOLIS RACE

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., April 11.—Shades of the racing past flickered across the bricks of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway today with the announcement of the first factory entry for the 500-mile race next month.

Four other factories are expected to announce teams in rapid succession, it was declared by speedway officials, who said that other factory executives were merely waiting the bravery of some other auto building organization to break the entry ice.

Russell Snowberger, the husky Philadelphia pilot who has been the Moses of the sport pointing the way to financial success in auto racing with semi-stock cars, will be at the helm of the first factory entry which is a Hupmobile Special.

When the racing at Indianapolis were shifted in 1930 to make possible the adaptation of stock cars for the historic Indianapolis racing classic, Snowberger, a splendid mechanic, brought his converted stock car to Indianapolis and placed it on the starting line at a total cost of $1456. It looked a bit clumsey compared to the specially built race cars, several of which cost more than $25,000. But when the race was over Snowberger was in eighth place and during the year he won approximately $10,000 in prize money and finished fourth in the AAA championship standing. His repair bill was $1.25.

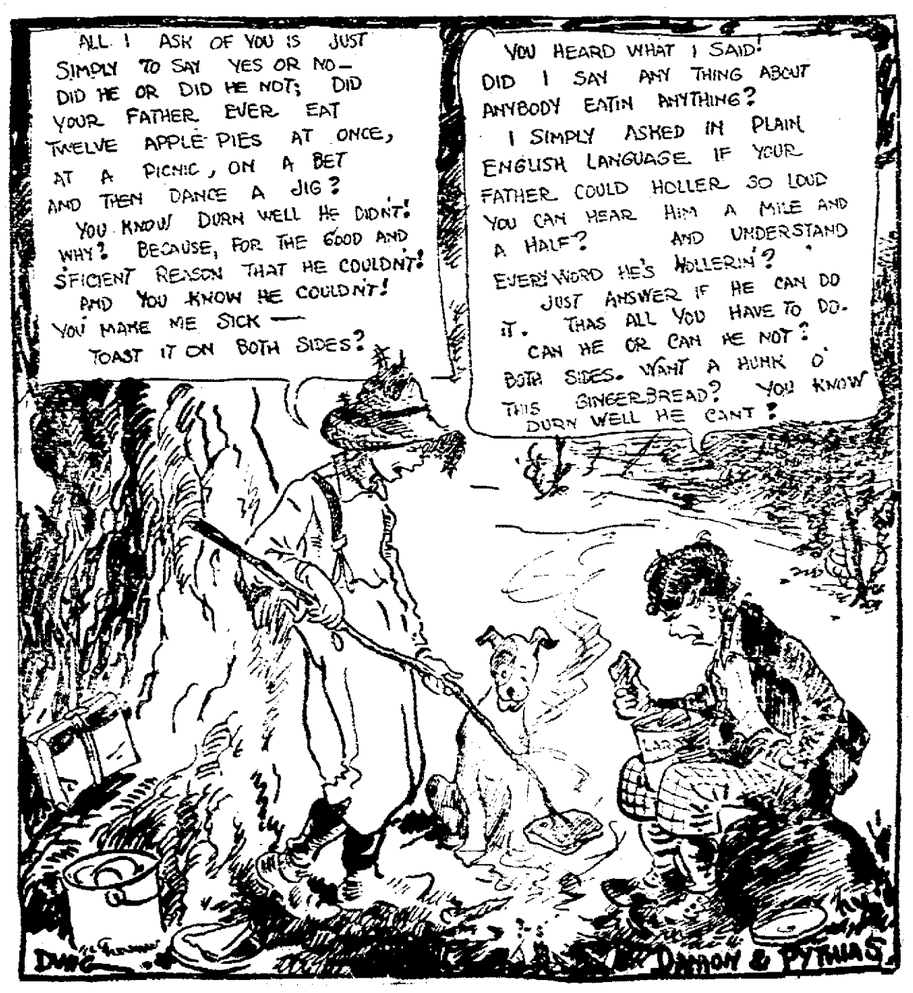
SCHOOL DAYS — By DWIG



ALL I ASK OF YOU IS JUST SIMPLY TO SAY YES OR NO— DID HE OR DID HE NOT; DID YOUR FATHER EVER EAT TWELVE APPLE PIES AT ONCE, AT A PICNIC, ON A BET AND THEN DANCE A JIG?
YOU KNOW DURN WELL HE DIDN'T! WHY? BECAUSE, FOR THE GOOD AND SFICIENT REASON THAT HE COULDN'T! AND YOU KNOW HE COULDN'T! YOU MAKE ME SICK— TOAST IT ON BOTH SIDES?
YOU HEARD WHAT I SAID! DID I SAY ANY THING ABOUT ANYBODY EATIN ANYTHING? I SIMPLY ASKED IN PLAIN ENGLISH LANGUAGE IF YOUR FATHER COULD HOLLER SO LOUD YOU CAN HEAR HIM A MILE AND A HALF? AND UNDERSTAND EVERY WORD HE'S HOLLERIN'? JUST ANSWER IF HE CAN DO IT. THAS ALL YOU HAVE TO DO. CAN HE OR CAN HE NOT? BOTH SIDES. WANT A HUNK O' THIS GINGERBREAD? YOU KNOW DURN WELL HE CANT!

AGRICULTURAL SCHOLARSHIPS ARE GRANTED BY UNIVERSITY

COLUMBUS, O., April 11.—Award of the 20 four-year agricultural scholarships given annually by Ohio State University, is announced by Dean Alfred Vivian, of the college of agriculture. Five scholarships were granted in each of four districts comprising the entire state.

The scholarships were awarded on the basis of examinations held March 19 in county seats. They provide free tuition in the university for a four year course in agriculture and have a total value of $240. They are provided by the university's board of trustees to encourage promising high school graduates to study agriculture.

AWARDS LISTED

The awards follow:

Northwest District—Charles A. Bratton, Delta; Earl Osborn, Montpelier; Lawrence Wengert, Walbridge; Mathias Dietrick, Holgate; and Willis H. Bash, Forest. Ninety-nine took the examination in this district.

Northeast District—Richard G. Anderson, Mt. Vernon; Myron Martin, Apple Creek; Dale F. Bunnell, Fredericktown; Louis A. Gardner, Howard; and Don Tolbert, Wooster. The examination was taken by 116 in this district.

Southwest District—Karl Kahler, Westerville; William Tanger, Bellefontaine; Max L. Michael, Sidney; Robert Seeds, Hilliards; and Clarence O. House, Eaton. Examination taken by 129.

Southeast District—Ralph B. Sawyer, Malta; Glenn Whetstone, Lower Salem; David Beckett, Caldwell; Allen Christy, Belmont; and Lowell Shepherd, Morristown. Examination taken by 89.

Anderson had the highest grade among the 433 who took the examination with 86.75. Martin was second with 84.85, and Bunnell third with 83.85.

NOMINEES ARE ANNOUNCED BY ALUMNI OF OHIO STATE

COLUMBUS, O., April 11.—William A. Dougherty, '17, '20, Cleveland attorney and Evan J. Crane, '11, Columbus, editor of Chemical Abstracts, have been nominated for vice president of the Ohio State University Association, national organization of Ohio State alumni. The election will be held by mail in May.

Dougherty, former varsity football manager, composer of two university football songs and member of a well known Cleveland law firm, was nominated by a committee of Painesville, O., alumni. Crane was named similarly by a committee of Rochester, N. Y., alumni.

OTHER NOMINEES

Other nominees of the Painesville committee are. Helen Zeller Gardiner, '11, Columbus, second vice president; Frances Jones, '27, 28, Dayton, board of directors. Other nominees of the Rochester committee are Martha E. Pollard, '22, Cleveland, second vice president; Anne Cornell, '19, dean of women, Franklin College, board of directors.

Two present officers were renominated by both committees. They are Kenyon S. Campbell, '20, Columbus, treasurer; and Samuel N. Summer, '05, Columbus, alumni member of the athletic board. H. E. Nesbitt, '14, Columbus, has been appointed alumni member of the Ohio Union Board of Overseers to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of D N Postlewaite, '96 D J Brumley, Chicago, national alumni president, holds office for another year.

Ballots for the election will be mailed next month to all members of the Association. Results will be announced June 11 on Alumni Day.

Periled Premier

That the job of being Premier of Newfoundland is anything but a bed of roses can be testified by Sir Richard Squires (above), the present incumbent, who was faced with the unenviable prospect of being thrown in the harbor when an infuriated mob of 15,000 stormed the Capitol at St. John's. Members of Parliament and police were roughly handled. The government has been in trouble for some months owing to the inability to do anything about the unemployment problem.

Any member of the family of Mrs. E. Barrere, 119 W Union-st, is invited to be a guest of The Herald to the Grand Theatre. Call at this office for ticket.

$10,000 BEQUEST GIVEN TO SCHOOL

COLUMBUS, O, April 11.—Ohio State University has received $10,000 from the estate of the late General Edward Orton, Jr., son of its first president and former dean of its college of engineering, who died Feb. 10. The sum constituted the proceeds of an insurance policy on General Orton's life

Trustees of the university, in receiving the money, adopted a motion "that the deep appreciation of the board of trustees be expressed to his family and to the executors of his will." The money has been deposited in the state treasury.

Income from the bequest will be used to support the Edward Orton Memorial Library of Geology which General Orton had established some years ago in the university in memory of his father. For a number of years prior to his death he had annually given to the library $500 for the purchase of additional volumes for the geology collection. This practice the university plans to continue.

KILLED DETECTIVE IS ON TRIAL TODAY

PORTSMOUTH, O., April 11 — Accused of killing Detective John Barnes during an attempted robbery, Paul Christian, 29, went on trial for first degree murder in Scioto county common pleas court today.

Prosecuto. Camerson Meacham charged Christian killed the officer when the latter, answering the screams of Mrs. Elizabeth Wood, sought to arrest the alleged bandit. The death penalty will be demanded.

Cassil Patton, 25, reputed accomplice of Christian, is scheduled to go on trial a week from today facing the same charge of the man as a "noted character" whom an informant connected definity with the crime.

The man was apprehended by Captam Oliver, of the New York confidential squad of the police department. He said the man was turned over to Inspector Harry Walsh, Jersey City, on Friday night.

CAUSES CONFUSION

More confusion was caused by Oliver's statement which said the mystery suspect was not a gangster, had no police record, and has "a respectable reputation." the conflict between this assertion and Schwarzkopf's bulletin was not cleared up by officials.

The Schwarzkopf bulletin said: "An informant definitely connected him with the crime and this is one of the lines of investigation referred to in earlier bulletins as a matter which we could not disclose at that time

"This investigation caused a very considerable amount of work involving investigation in Westsville, Somerville, Long Branch, Atlantic Highlands, Philadelphia, Plattsburgh, Staten Island, New York City, Montreal, Long Island, Newark, Jersey City and a number of farms in rural New Jersey."

The suspect provided an alibi, Schwarzkopf said, which was being checked

"No further statement will be made by me on this matter," Oliver declared. "I have been told the Lindbergh baby's life may depend on secrecy being maintained concerning the man in question."

Observers noting the list of cities referred to by Schwarzkopf as involved in investigation of the suspect saw a coincidence in the fact they were approximately the same in which the Detroit Purple gang members were traced when they were mentioned in the case

Unusual activity revived at the Lindbergh home last night indicated a conference of some sort went on in the home. Dr. John Hibben Grier, president of Princeton university, was amoung those who attended it.

CONFERENCE HELD

Rumors gained circulation the conference, which lasted until far into the morning hours, was called because Lindbergh received another communication from the kidnaper who identified themselves through the cryptic symbol, never published, contained in the ransom note

They carried, it was reported, to exchange the $50,000 in $5, $10 and $20 bills given them by Lindbergh and the serial numbers of which were made public when the child was not delivered to its parents, for the same amount in gold coin or gold dust, after which they would deliver the infant

Lindbergh made public his belief he was dealing with the genuine kidnapers when he paid the $50 000 ransom in a statement given out through Schwarzkopf

The identification of the men who communicated with him was made through "a means offered in the ransom note of postive identification," the statement said.

In both subsequent notes and when the ransom was paid, the "means" were used by the men Lindbergh believed to be of the kidnap gang, he said.

This announcement set at rest reports Lindbergh received a piece of the child's sleeping suit he wore when stolen However, this was never considered as convincing evidence the sender was the baby's captor, since the description of the suit and the name of the maker was published after the kidnaping so a dupicate could easily be bought openly by any one, investigators pointed out.

The treasury department made public the list of serial numbers of the bills paid in the futile effort to recover his son.

PUBLISH LIST

This came after Lindbergh's statement Saturday night, that after payment of the money, the child was not found at the designated spot.

Reports were that Stratford, Conn., where Lindbergh stopped on one of his plane flights a week ago yesterday, might have been the place selected for the return of Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr.

Federal agents once more entered the case with vigor today. Boston and the Cape Cod region were the scene of their greatest activity

One report was they searched for Abie Wagner, for whom Schwarzkopf's men hunted for several weeks. Wagner, a New York gangster, was said by one federal officer to have been the man to whom Lindbergh paid $50,000 but no confirmation of this was forthcoming.

Wagner was linked with Harry Fleischer, member of Detroit's purple gang, to the kidnaping early in the investigation.

Medic Escapes Impromptu Ride

CHICAGO, April 11 —A singular story of a prominent physician who was mistaken for a bootlegger and narrowly escaped being "taken for a ride" came today from the lips of Dr. A E. Budde, city physician of suburban North Chicago

His eyes and wrists still swollen from the effects of tape with which his captors had bound and blindfolded him Dr Budde was safe at home today after being imprisoned in a huge distillery for 24 hours. He said his captors released him on a lonely road after discovering he was not the bootlegger for whom they were searching. Before letting him go free, the doctor said, the gangsters robbed him of $40 and his automobile.

He was abducted late Friday night while driving back from an accident case which he had attended on a highway.

the expedition and that Mayor Brooks and Chief of Police Osborne had requested them to leave Pineville. A group of citizens then followed the Commonwealth party and forced the students and teachers to drive to the state boundary line according to Koch

Before reaching the state line, Koch said, the roll-go automobile was forced into a side road where it was made to halt Each student and teacher, in turn, were then taken out of their automobile and severely beaten Harold Coy, a boy, was the most seriously injured Beatings covered his entire head and shoulders, Koch said

The young college president declared there were six men in an automobile which followed the investigators' car. He said all six could be identified by their victims, although he could not give the names of any of the alleged assailants.

FOOD IS LOST

"We never were permitted to distribute any of the food we brought in our car," said Koch. "The crowd cut the ropes which held the parcels of food to our running board Much of it fell to the ground and was wasted while our tormentors shouted taunting remarks at us."

After listening to their story, Judge Neal invited the students and teachers to be his guest at his hotel for the night.

Hawaiian Home Race

WITHIN two years after its annexation in 1898 Hawaii received full territorial rights with a legislature of two branches having the same powers which had been conferred in territorial legislatures in continental United States. County and municipal governments were created with home-rule powers. And the islanders were led to believe that their ultimate destiny was statehood.

Now Assistant Attorney General Richardson recommends, because of crime conditions on the islands, that, instead of advancing them toward statehood, they should be deprived of some of their territorial rights of self-government. The inference is that the islanders have shown ineptitude for self-government.

It is not proposed to take lawmaking powers away from the natives, but to have the president of the United States appoint the attorney general and high sheriff, who are at the head of the law enforcement agencies of the island territory. Richardson is of the opinion that this drastic step is demanded by the alarming conditions which are responsible for the Massie-Fortescue case.

If the situation in Hawaii argues for less home rule, then those American cities that clamor for more home rule should have less rather than more, for crime conditions in them are of a kind with those in the one-time Pacific paradise. If the Massie-Fortescue case proves the breakdown of the island government, the governments of all larger American cities have also broken down and should be supplanted by a federal police force. This very thing has been proposed in at least one instance.

Substitution of a police power directly responsible to Washington may be the only way out of the Hawaiian dilemma, but Washington should ponder long before taking a step which is certain to make the sensitive and nationalistic natives bitter and promote political unrest.

Filipino Independence

THAT vote in the lower house of congress to give the Philippines absolute independence in eight years is a straw in the wind pointing toward a growing sentiment in the United States in favor of deliverance of the islands from American suzerainty.

Sooner or later the islands must be granted their freedom or they will fight for it as they opposed Spanish rule, so it is well to prepare for it now. Perhaps in another eight years the Filipinos will be in a position to convince all of their ability to govern themselves. If not they will have to struggle along the best they can.

One of the reasons why Washington has been loath to put the Philippines on their own is the treat of Japanese imperialism. No one is fooled by the Jap offers to agree to a policy of neutality or by their disclaimers to an interest in the islands. Unless the islanders are in a position to defend themselves against foreign control and exploitation they will be in immediate danger of transferring their allegiance from the United States to Japan. Japan has long had her eyes on the Philippines and has fostered the independence movement there.

If a majority of the inhabitants of the islands desire their independance, Washington cannot moraliy deny to them that inalienable right of people, even though to do so may put them in peril. Uncle Sam's word must be kept as good as his bond, especially in the Philippines where there have been so many betrayals.

Bail Racketeers

THROUGHOUT the United States and more particularly in the larger centers of population where conditions are aggravated by multiplication of cases, bail bonding is an enigma that has thus far defied satisfactory solution.

Bonds from irresponsible persons collusion between magistrates and professional bondsmen, "springing" of habitual criminals under inadequate bail and bail kiting are among the evils that have grown up with the crime wave, but the practice that comes closest home to those who run foul of the law is the "gouging" of accused persons who must, unless they have the cash or friends, either pay exorbitant commissions for bail or languishin jail.

The common system, or lack of system, is satisfactory neither to the courts nor to the prosecuted.

Unscrpulous professional bondsmen justify their exorbitant rates by pretending to influence the judgment of the court, the district attorney or the magistrate. In some cases it has been found that they do exert an influence in one or all of these places, although corrupted courts are more rare than is commonly supposed by a generation that is too willing to charge dishonesty in high and low places.

An Unequal Race!

"The GAY BANDIT of the BORDER"

by TOM GILL

COPYRIGHT 1931, BY INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE CO., INC. — DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Harkness, one of the most respected ranchers on the Mexican border, is "El Coyote," the masked bandit, who has avenged the wrongs inflicted upon the peons by Paco Morales. Ted Radcliffe, the son of Bob's dead friend, Ann Reed, an entertainer at a disreputable resort, and Dr. Price are the only ones who know "El Coyote's" identity. Morales would pay well for this information and, not knowing that Ann loves "El Coyote" and is his spy, asks her to secure it. He also employs her to entangle Ted and kill his beautiful niece, Adela's, love for the American. Ann goes to warn Bob and brings Ted the news that a large tract of land controlled by Morales rightfully belongs to him. Back in her room, as Ann informs Ted of Morales' proposed trap for Lim, the door opens and the Spaniard enters with Adela. His purpose accomplished, he apologizes and leaves with his disillusioned niece. Downstairs, Ted receives an insinuating message from Jito, Morales' ward, who is insanely jealous of him. The inevitable clash has come and the two men battle for life or death.

And still, head down, eyes closed, sweat pouring over bloody skin, they struggled on.

CHAPTER XLV

They were motionless now, those two grotesque, hulking bodies, beneath the glare of the lights. Their clothing hung in tattered shreds. Their breathing came in agonized sobs, and already one of Jito's eyes had closed. Ted's own face was haggard, his jaw had dropped, and the blue veins on his forehead stood out like cords beneath his wet hair. Yet in this last supreme effort his aching muscles knotted as he forced Jito's captive hand still higher, still nearer the breaking point. Once more a low groan was wrung from the Mexican's lips as Ted forced his arm upward inch by inch in that killing hold. Jito's shoulder was on fire. Flinging his head back, he tried to batter the man's face with his great skull, and once his head crashed on the point of Ted's chin with a sharp crack. For an instant the American's hold weakened, then, with a last effort, strengthened, and again the merciless hammerlock tightened. Already the Mexican's great sinews were cracking with the agony and strain of it. His neck had swollen. The great head lolled from side to side in a very ecstasy of pain, but still the dark giant fought on. One gripping hand had caught Ted by the shoulder, and in a last frantic effort tore the skin with clenched nails. No sound. It might have been a place of death except for the sobbing breath of those two forms, horrible now to look at, savage, beyond all thought and all sensation except for the blood lust that rioted in both their brains. They were no longer men. They were two primeval forces of the world, symbols of clashing destinies. They were hate incarnate.

And still, head down, eyes closed, sweat pouring over bloody skin, they struggled on.

"Mother of God," one murmured hoarsely from the crowd, "never before have men fought as these men fight. They are wolves, these two, mad wolves. Look, in God's name! Now the American strangles him!"

For, still locking Jito's wrist in his left hand, Ted had wound his right arm closer about the Mexican's neck and little by little was tightening his hold. Jito's eyes bulged. Once a stifled cry rose from his torn lips. Shifting his weight to his left foot he whipped suddenly about with all the force of his right leg, in a frantic attempt to maim Ted, but he was too close. Like a dying man his free arm rose high in the air, his fingers opened and clutched horribly. The man's life was being forced from his very body by this merciless antagonist.

Once among those silent spectators a form moved. One of Jito's vaqueros whipped a knife from his belt and stepped forward, but the click of a cocked automatic sounded unmistakably loud in the silent room. He looked up to see the gray eyes of Don Bob watching warily. Bob said no word, but the heavy Colt had shifted ever so little toward the Mexican who held the knife. Quickly the man dropped back into the crowd.

Then, suddenly, it was ended.

Once again the great fist of Jito raised impotently into the air, but the jerking, mighty fingers clutched nothingness, and now his knees bent and his head fell limply forward. It was over. The giant of the border was down. One last moan of agony rose from those tortured lips, and his eyes closed. As he slid to the floor, Ted threw his arms about him, raised him and carried that great, unconscious form across the room. On the bar he laid his fallen adversary and stood for a long moment watching him while his own heart pounded wildly in his breast. For a moment the room swayed. His head rose and fell, gasping for air. Then he raised his head toward Bob and tried to smile.

The other man had turned toward the watchful little knot of vaqueros. "This man," Bob said to them in Spanish, "gives you back your chief. If he had chosen he might have killed him. We go now, but let none of you move until we are away."

Once more Ted looked at the crumpled hulk lying so strangely quiet across the bar. All hatred, all bitterness had gone out of him—he felt only a great weariness and a desire for sleep. Don Bob [illegible] over Red Biffle's shoulder and led him out into the night.

Next morning Ann [illegible] her room smoking [illegible] breakfast cigarette. Downstairs Morales was still there and [illegible] last night's encounter. [illegible] upset ranches and tongues [illegible] tales were spreading [illegible] they rode out in the [illegible] Twice already Mendoza had thrust his dark face into the [illegible] room to report to her some word of that night's memorable battle, but now, as she looked up from beside the sunny window, Mendoza had different news.

"A señorita asks to come up." There was a quaver of excitement in his voice. "It is the Señorita Morales." For a moment the little man was silent. "It must be about that fight of those two mad giants. Quién va? All the border will know of this by night. And then what will those swaggering vaqueros of Paco Morales say?"

The long lashes of the girl lifted. She smiled and dropped the cigarette into a bowl before her. "Ask Señorita Morales to come up."

And she was still smiling when the door opened and Adela Morales stood in the doorway.

Their eyes held each other with a long, questioning look. To the older woman Adela seemed enviably young and splendidly alive as she stood there hesitant in the doorway. A shaft of light from the window touched the coppery hair curling beneath the broad-brimmed Panama. The flush of desert winds was in her cheeks. She entered and softly closed the door.

"You know who I am," she said.

Ann Reed nodded. "And I know, too, why you came. Please sit down."

As Adela pulled off her driving gloves the singer saw her lips quiver, and knew that tears were not far from her eyes. A sudden wave of sympathy for the girl caught her. She broke the silence. "You were taken in last night by what you saw here, weren't you? Just for a moment?"

Adela nodded, her eyes still bright with tears.

"Your uncle is stupid. But [illegible] so much, so very complicated. [illegible] lighted a cigarette. "[illegible] it was a dangerously [illegible] You know, I had to [illegible] big giant of yours, or he might have made Paco Morales very [illegible] Then! But you don't need me to tell you who this grimly quiet [illegible] loves really loves. Oh yes! [illegible] you don't. You only came to me to make sure. It was a [illegible] thing. I wonder if any man is worth it!"

Then slowly, dispassionately, but with relentless accuracy, Ann Reed told of Morales' earlier visit and of the offer he had made.

Why Some Children Grow Too Slowly, or Too Fast

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

IN the growth of a child there will be found a definite relationship between the height and weight.

At birth the average baby measures between 19 and 20½ inches. During the first year the gain is about 8 inches, and during the second year from 3 to 5 inches.

In Spring and Summer months the growth is usually more rapid than in Winter months. Weak and premature babies are apt to grow in height, while the gain in weight is small and may remain stationary.

The variations in development differ considerably within normal limits. A child below standard requirements from effects of ill health, improper diet or some constitutional disease, under proper conditions may grow into a robust person.

Dwarfish persons may be perfect in physical structure, with organs well formed but small, but another form of failure to attain proper growth is called infantilism. In this the individual is childish, both in appearance and in mentality. Some such cases have their origin in constitutional diseases, like tuberculosis, while in others there appears to be a disturbance of the ductless glands, the endocrine glands.

One of these, the thyroid gland, is of great importance in normal growth. If there is marked failure in its function, the result is a form of mental defect known as cretinism. Cretins are short for their age, childish in mentality and appearance; the head and abdomen are large, the face is pale and the skin is thick and rubbery. All the mental reactions are sluggish and the physical movements are slow.

Where the thyroid disturbance is slight, usually there is great improvement under the administration of the gland extracts obtained from animals. Not infrequently, indeed, an approximate cure is effected.

Other types of failure in glandular action have been recognized and treated with varying success, but in all cases hygiene and dietetic supervision is required.

The Endocrine Glands

In contrast to the small, under-developed child is the large, over-sized and overweight type. Occasionally this condition may have its origin in overfeeding and lack of exercise, but this cause is comparatively infrequent. Most cases have been proved to be due to some disturbance of function in the endocrine glands.

This type of child is tall and has the appearance of an adult. In boys the voice is sometimes husky and deep, and in certain cases the muscles are over-developed. The degree of intelligence does not correspond to the size of the body, but rather to the age of the child.

Some disturbance of the secretion of those endocrines known as the pituitary glands is at fault in such cases. These glands are found at the base of the brain. Too great a secretion from the anterior portion of the gland causes these peculiar changes in the muscles and bones.

In certain cases, skillful administration of certain extracts from the endocrines of animals has resulted in arresting the progress of the disease. Your doctor will tell you about this.

Answers to Health Queries

R. H. Q.—What would cause a sort of drawing sensation in the right leg? Have had teeth X-rayed and tonsils removed. Am 26 years of age and in good health. I drive a car every day for several hours. Would this be a factor in any way?

A.—The trouble may be due to strain. Rest and massage should be helpful. If the trouble persists see your doctor for his advice.

The Daily Horoscope

Monday, April 11, 1932

This should be a particularly good day for those who can exercise ingenuity and inventiveness. Unusual developments may be looked for in the scientific world. The whole trend is towards doing things differently and those who cling fast to useless and worn-out traditions may feel disturbed and resentful.

Around 8:03 a. m., Eastern Standard time should be favorable for starting new business, seeking employment, dealing with authorities and those in power. Short journeys for business should prove profitable.

At 9:31 a. m. the indications point to a decided quickening of the mentality. A time when new ideas may pop into the mind. Favorable for students of occultism, metaphysics, Astrology, psychology and electricity. Inventors should seize this occasion to push their researches. Radio fans benefit through novel improvements. Experiments with short waves and high frequency currents should bring most satisfying results. Dealers in electrical appliances should push their ware.

The afternoon is without important indications. Generally favorable for mental work, journeys and removals. Beneficial for those born between October 13th and 22nd and between February 10th and 19th. These people should start things, ask favors and make efforts towards advancement and promotion.

Children whose birthday this is are clever and active in all of the literary faculties making them mentally receptive and soon are quite able to express their likes and dislikes. They should be trained in conversational English for in later years this type of child develops the talent of writing and correspondence.

Among the notables who may be born on this date, may be found; Edward Everett, American statesman; Charles Evans Hughes, American statesman and J. W. Hawkins, Artist.

At the Circleville Theatres

AT THE GRAND

Harry Kahne and his road show, appearing at the Grand Opera house for one night only, next Tuesday, April 12, comprise fifteen versatile artists. There is a band of eight and individual singers, dancers and comedians. To name them all might carry little conviction, but several apart from the star performer are well known in the amusement field. Rio Smith and Adams have played all of the important circuits with their amusing hodge-podge. Harry (Shuffle) LeVan is a master of ceremonies worthy of the best of stage presentations. Pearl Roland and Rita Stanley, dancer and singer respectively, are both accomplished in their line of work, wear gorgeous costumes and add to the pictorial quality of the program. Frankie Cramer is a comedienne whose laugh-provoking stunts are irresistable.

The vaudeville bill consists of three distinct parts. First there is the band presentation in a handsome special setting, second Mr. Kahne's amazing tricks of mental concentration, and third the uproarous travesty, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew." It runs exactly one hour. As the feature picture, Zane Gray's "The Rainbow Trail," also runs an hour, but two performances can be given Tuesday night, the first starting at 6:45 and the second at 9 o'clock. To provide additional seating Manager Baughman will use the orchestra pit for eighteen or twenty late-comers. Under no circumstances however will the legal capacity of the Grand Opera House be oversold.

Barbara Stanwyck and Adolphe Menjou recently had the unsual pleasure of dancing in the dining salon of a ship that hasn't yet been built. It was during the filming of the current Grand Theatre attraction, "Forbidden."

It all happened when the Columbia art department was designing the sets for the new drama. An elaborate ship set was needed to serve as a background for the romatic meeting of Miss Stanwyck and Menjou lovers in the picture.

Stephen Goszon, Art Director for Columbia, contracted the heads of one of the largest steamships lines in the country. They were planning to build a new liner next year — a ship that was to be the last word in modern ocean-going craft. The salons and decks of the liner were to follow a new and hitherto unknown scheme and the furnishings were to be ultra modern.

It was finally agreed that Columbia could follow the ideas to be utilized in the making of the huge vessel. Innovations in cabin furnishings are used in the picture that will not be introduced to the public for several seasons.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Dashing, debonaire, Robert Montgomery has a new sophisticated and racy role in his latest Metro-Goldwyn feature presentation, "But the Flesh is Weak," opening at The Cliftona Tuesday.

Bob has a new sweatheart here, Nora Gregor. This is said to be an exceptional and smart drama of London life, gay gambling casinos, Berkly Square and all the famous haunts of the London elect. Edward Everett Horton, Heather Thatcher, Nils Asther, C. Aubery Smith, and others are assembled about the gay Mr. Montgomery.

This picture introducts a new fad, ladies with monocles. It is based on the play, "The Truth Game," by Ivor Novello, and the author, now doing a dialog and originals for Metro, played the lead with Billie Burke when it first opened.

Jack Conway, who directed the Barrymore boys in "Arsene Lupin," directed the film.

Tuesday is also pay-night at the Cliftona. So if you feel at all lucky a visit may prove very profitable.

Any member of the family of H. S. Mowery, R. F. D. 3, Circleville, is invited to be a guest of The Herald to the Grand Theatre. Call ath this office for ticket.

How Kahne Did It At Tacoma, Washington

He works hanging by his feet with greater ease than the average person does when standing. He has headlined every important vaudeville Theatre in America and will headline the "Broadway Varieties" showing at the Grand Opera House Tuesday night.

Raub Jones, daughter of Jacob and Louisa Raub was born March 24, 1870, in Pickaway-co and departed this life April 4, 1932, aged 62 years and 11 days The responsibilities of a home wer placed upon her at an early age when her mother was called to the Great Beyond. She carried on the duties of the home until she went to make her home with Mrs Susan Dreisbach of Hallsville where she lived for 16 years.

She became a member of the Kingston Methodist church when a very young woman, and lived her christianity every day, truthful, honest, upright and an unfailing friend; always quiet in her demeanor, a gentlewoman in every sense of the word

On Oct. 5 1904, she was united in marriage to Shannon H. Jones and to this union three sons were born, two sons having preceded her to the Eternal Home.

Mrs. Jones was a member of the Philathea Sunday school class and the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. church. Through frailty of health she was unable to attend the church activities but kept in close touch with the organizations within her home. She was a patient sufferer through 20 years of affliction She is survived by her husband and one son Cecil, a sister, Mrs. Laura Baucher, of Circleville, and one brother, Samuel Raub, of near Circleville, and a host of other relatives and friends

One of the Lord's blessed ones has been taken from us but we pray that her modest life will help us to carry on and give us a determination to serve unselfishly.

The funeral services for Mrs. Jones were held at the residence Wednesday at 1 p m with Rev V C Stump officiating. Burial was made in Mt Pleasant cemetery.

The relatives attending the funeral service from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Raub, Mr. and Mrs. John Baucher and two daughters, Mrs Florence Dewey and children, and Miss Bertha Hampshire, all of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Jones and family and Miss Rosie Jones of Williamsport, John Creighton of near Clarksburg; Mr and Mrs. Walter Raub and family, of Columbus, Dudley Raub, of near Cincinnati, Mr and Mrs Floyd Baucher and child, and Mr. and Mrs Gray, of Lancaster; Harry Baucher of Portsmouth, and Miss Inez Bower, of Westerville.

DRAMATIC CLUB TO HAVE SECOND PRESENTATION

The Sign of the Masque will present its second play at the Cliftona Theatre, between pictures, Wednesday evening The public will find in this play an entirely different atmosphere from that of the former production, for the club has turned from one of Tarkington's romatic farces to the very tense and characterful drama of "Two Crooks and a Lady."

The play might almost be described as being one of the problem variety in which is kept ever before the public the question, "Which will win out, which will display the greater intelligence, which will be the first to seize opportunity and turn it to advantage —two rather warped yet clever crooks, or a helpless, unyielding old lady?"

Those who are weary of the hackneyed plot of the usual crime play, will welcome this plot as a pleasant and heartening diversion while for those who like mystery, there are the vague allusions to the famulous Thirty-three which means so much to both the Two Crooks and the Lady.

The play has been tried and not found wanting by a number of dramatic schools and club and comes well recommended, so that the club feels no hesitancy in commending it to a discriminating public.

THEATER ROBBED

COLUMBUS, O., April 11.—Two armed robbers who staged a $600 holdup at a local theater late last night were hunted in this city's out-of-the-way places today.

After attending a movie at the Eastern theater, the bandits bound and blindfolded Robert O. Glick, manager, and two projector operators, Allen Kidwell and Howard Winkelman, when the theater employes started to leave for the night.

The men were believed to have escaped in a small sedan.

ABERNETHY RITES

8th, 1868, he was united in marriage with Sarah Elizabeth Buzick at Mt. Sterling, Ohio, a lady of rare charm and character, a devoted wife and mother, who preceded him in death November 18th, 1895. They were the parents of six children, of whom the following survive:

Charles Newton, of Pittsburgh, Pa.
Richard Harrison, Kansas City.
Rhoda Dunlap of this city.
Minnie A. Brown of Columbus.

Two sons having preceded him in death:

James Ira and Bernard C.

Seven grandchildren survive.

On Thanksgiving Day, November 30th, 1899, he was married in this city to Wealtha Vieth who for more than thirty years has been a beloved wife and devoted companion.

A lawyer by profession, he enjoyed many honors, and had a fine conception of the duties and privileges connected therewith. He was at the time of his death the president of the local Bar Association.

He was affiliated with the Masonic bodies, a Knight Templar and Past Eminent Commander, a member of the Elks Lodge and an ardent Democrat.

His father's home, the place of meeting of the Circuit Riders of the early days, had its Christian influence, although he was not an active member of any church he was, a Methodist.

His genial smile, ready wit, charming manner, a gentleman of the old school, he numbered his friends by his acquaintences he knew no distinctions, he was the friend of everybody.

His charities, many and unknown, an example to all.

Yet gentle was he as a little child; and in his tender sympathetic heart weakness and sorrow found a hiding place, no pang of others but he felt the smart. He loved his home, as needle to the pole, turns ever true on whate'er seas men roam; so to his fireside turned his constant heart; no spot so blessed as his home. Yet from his home, as from a central sun, his love o'er all the earth outshone; no earnest cause appealed to him in vain, that hoped to lead the old earth up and on.

And yet, oh friends, it is such men as he that makes the earth seem empty when they leave. That he was noble is our comfort now, and yet tis for this very cause we grieve.

When all is said and done we come to this, though clouds be around us and tears dim our way; we still trust that he who makes the night will lead us through it to the coming day.

We'll hide his loving memory in our hearts; we'll follow in the pathway that he trod; we'll make each day another step upon the stairway leading up to him and God

SELECTS WAY TO CUT WOOL PENALTY

A penalty of five cents a pound on the wool clip may be prevented by taking a few simple precautions when shearing sheep, says L. A. Kauffman, extension specialist in sheep for the department of animal husbandry at the Ohio State University.

With present low prices, he points out, careless shearing that permits the making of second cuts, not keeping to the hide, the tearing of the fleeces, and the kicking together of fleeces so that shaffy neck pieces are scattered back through them, may often be responsible for a loss from the entire flock for the year.

Another common cause of penalties on the clip is found in the use of heavy, rough twine in tieing the packages The fibers from such twine do not dissolve in the scouring process and show up as defects in the finished cloth.

As a result of such shearing the whole clip may be docked 5 cents a pound. To get the full value for wool, he suggests that a clean floor or canvas be provided for shearing, that the shearers be made to keep close to the skin, and that sheep be handled so that their fleece will come off in one piece. If the best prices are to be obtained, it also is essential to remove all heavy sweat locks, stained or wet wool and chaffy head pieces, and pack them separately.

In making the packages, Kauffman believes it is a good idea to spread the fleece out with the skin side down, turn in the breech, belly and neck wools, and roll into a neat package with the best wool on the outside Paper twine then is used to tie the wool into a loose package which should be laid aside until the animal heat is out of it, packed into clean sacks, and stored in a clean, dry place away from direct sunlight until it is ready to market.
